CENSUS BULLETIN ISSUED

Larger Acreage Than Ever Before and Number of Farms Greatly Increased-Value of Products Given in Detail by Director Merriam.

According to the Census Bureau the people of the United States are still given largely to farming, despite the constant reports that have appeared from time to time that rural sections are being de populated and cities overcrowded. An advance bulletin on agriculture in the Office yesterday. It says in part:

"The farms of the United States, June 1, 1900, numbered 5,739,657, and were valued at $16,674,690,247. Of this amount good to have been there.

The products derived from domestic an imals, poultry, and bees, including animais sold and animals slaughtered on farms, are referred to in this bulletin as "animal products." The total value of such products, together with the value of all crops, is termed "total value of farm products." This value for 1859 was $4,-739.118.752, of which amount $1,718,990, 221, or 36.3 per cent, represents the value of animal products, and $3,020,128,531, or 63.7 per cent, the value of crops, including forest products cut or produced on farms. The total value of farm products for 1899 exceeds that reported for 1889 by $2,279,011,298, or 92.6 per cent. A part of this apparent increase is doubtless due to a more detailed enumeration in 1900 than
